Please include a resume and at least three references.

Please write a one paragraph third-person “autobiography.”

This is bragging – or boasting, pure and simple. If you are hired by Chyten, we will use this autobiography to “sell your services” to prospective parents. Include the best information about yourself. If you attended a great college or private school, mention the name. If you’ve earned a PhD, then say that. If you’ve been teaching for 20 years, talk about that. List your greatest accomplishments or traits. Leave out things like “coached the soccer team” or “worked for the Peace Corps.” These are wonderful accomplishments, but are rarely considered by parents to be important criteria in the selection of a tutor.

Here's a sample:

John Doe holds a Ph.D. in theoretical physics from MIT, with a specialization in the general theory of relativity. His undergraduate degree was also in physics from MIT. He has been a staff physicist at the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, and has worked extensively in industry in areas ranging from radar signature analysis, to radio astronomy, to the Apollo space program, to brain science. Dr. Doe's special interest is in the fundamental ideas and concepts that underlie modern physics. He especially enjoys teaching, and serves at Chyten as a tutor in mathematics and physics at all levels.

Now, it's your turn!
